Comment: The scale of the development is far too large and its size pays little respect to Hampton Court Palace. In fact, it is massive. The proposed design takes no references from the Palace and is, in fact, bland and uninteresting in all respects. The parking facilities are nowhere near adequate with, what appears to be, less car parking than currently exists on the railway station carpark. The development will create yet more traffic, more pressure on already stretched GP and school services. Create yet more traffic on the Hampton Court Way without proposing a real solution to the traffic problems that currently exist.

If the area is to be developed, it would be better if it were developed more along the lines of the waterfront development in Richmond (minus the Slug and Lettuce). In the sense that the building fits with what is around and is not just an ugly concrete block.
