Comment: Hello. We are currently dealing with a member of my family having a very aggressive cancer. She has been told by The Marsden that, because of the number of CT scans she has had, and the accompanying radiation that the scans emit, she must be mindful that further radiation may bring on a new cancer. Therefore they are reluctantly having to space the scans out going forward. The mast will be emitting further radiation via its electromagnetic field and cannot be anything but dangerous for her and anyone living within close proximity. I would ask Elmbridge council to think very carefully about allowing this unknown and unqualified scenario, which could result in very serious health issues in the future. As previously noted, we are doubtful that the owners of EE would allow this near to their homes.
