Comment: The safety of the residents of Elmbridge has got to be of utmost importance. Radio emissions in a highly populated area have health implications, particularly affecting young people. To site a mast within a short distance of a primary school is not acceptable. It is not worth risking compromising the health of people just for each telecommunication companies to own their own mast. The different telecom suppliers should agree to share masts. This ugly structure would be overpowering in appearance and would radiate into resident's homes - horrible thought. No further masts are necessary in this area.
