Comment: Fundamentally, the area needs much more housing, especially housing that caters to the needs of young people and families if we don't want our borough to become a ghost town. The plans have included more than enough parking and seem to have future-proofed their plans with EV charging points, something which will become invaluable in the near future. While I'm certainly no expert on architecture and design, the plans proposed for this project look as though they will fit in excellently in the area, and frankly immeasurably better than some of the other buildings in the area. I certainly want buildings to be pretty and of high quality, but the dire necessity for increased housing stock - as well as a better managed existing stock - is paramount. For those of us who see ourselves living here for many years to come, I want Elmbridge to grow with people moving here and loving the area as much as I have throughout my life.
