Comment: Burhill Golf Club has a long history of working in collaboration with agencies that protect the local environment, wildlife and assist in managing flood waters by allowing parts of the course to flood when the river Mole gets too high that would otherwise inundate homes further down river, on occasions leading to the New Course being closed for play for several days. They take and pay for (which is passed onto members through their fees) expert advice when making any changes to the courses, such as tree management, use of fertilisers etc in order to minimise harm to the environment or to maximise the environmental benefit. This project will allow the club to be more self-sufficient and reduce the amount of water taken from the Mole.
