Comment: We strongly object to the latest revised planning application for all the reasons given previously, both in our objection to the original planning application and also in our objection to the earlier revised application.

The latest revision addresses only one of the many issues raised originally, ie the width of the access road into the site. In a desperate attempt to increase the width of the road to accommodate emergency and refuse collection vehicles, the suggestion that sections of the road would be shared with pedestrians is just simply dangerous. It is very clear that the site is simply not large enough for what is proposed.

This development is totally unsuitable and also unsafe - creating another access point on Claygate Lane will undoubtedly put children at further risk when making their way to/from school on such a busy road.

All other objections - both our own and those of neighbours who actually live here and experience the gridlocked traffic on a daily basis - have been completely ignored by the developers.
